Villages of Bourne

Bourne Village • Bournedale • Buzzards Bay • Cataumet • Gray Gables •
Monument Beach • Joint Base Cape Cod • Pocasset • Sagamore • Sagamore Beach

Bourne is the first town visitors encounter when entering Barnstable County. It has the distinction of occupying most of the land through which the Cape Cod Canal flows. Whether traveling to the Cape on Route 3 or Route 495 to 25, visitors must pass through at least one of Bourne's many villages.

English colonists lived in this area as early as 1627. The first free enterprise in America was located near the west end of the land cut of the present Cape Cod

Canal. The Aptuxet Trading Post was situated on a piece of land between a creek and two rivers; the Manomet River connected with Massachusetts Bay, and the Monument River connected to a body of water that eventually reached the entrance of New York Harbor and the Hudson River. It was at this trading post that the Pilgrims traded goods with the Dutch colonies from the New York area. And it was here that the first currency in America was developed: it was called wampum and was made from purple parts of quahog shells. A replica of the Aptucxet Trading Post is situated off Shore Road in Bourne Village.

In the 1880s, Bourne became an ideal location for manufacturing. Power was provided by windmills and water wheels, and raw manufacturing materials were available in the region. Finished products could be shipped out on trains or ships. One noteworthy company was the Keith Car Works of Sagamore, which built freight cars. It began work in 1826 and remained in operation for over 100 years. Many houses built by the company can still be seen on both sides of the east end of the Canal.

As the large industrial centers in Massachusetts prospered, the state's wealthy residents wanted to escape the cities and enjoy the country. They scouted the Cape Cod Canal Region and decided it was perfect for their needs. The cool ocean breezes, sandy beaches and wooded lands made it an ideal summer retreat for the whole family. Over the next few years, many elaborate and expensive summer homes were built in the area. President Grover Cleveland, Shakespearean actor Joseph Jefferson and Boston Globe founder Charles H. Taylor were a few of the region's famous summer residents.

The features that attracted people here over 100 years ago are still present today, including moderate year-round temperatures, sandy beaches with water temperatures conducive to water sports, abundant fishing and shell fishing locations, and wooded areas in which to observe and enjoy nature. It is an excellent region to use power and sailing vessels both large and small. No matter what your interests are, Bourne is the place to be for a day, a week, or a lifetime.

East Sandwich • Forestdale • Sandwich • South Sandwich

Incorporated in 1639, Sandwich is the oldest of the Cape towns. During the town's first 100 years, the English settlers farmed the land and ran small coastal fishing enterprises.

Sandwich was also an important stagecoach stop on the Old King's Highway (now Route 6A) from Boston to Provincetown;

it quickly became a center for travel and tourism. Taverns and inns cropped up along the main street. Wealthy Boston travelers on business and vacation stayed at these establishments en route to other parts of Cape Cod. The Fessenden Tavern (later called the Central House) was one of the most famous stops; it was noted for being the Patriot Headquarters before the Revolutionary War and was later renamed for its most popular guest, Daniel Webster. Across town, Newcomb's Tavern, served as the Tory headquarters.

In the early 1800s, factories were started in the region, taking advantage of the national resources of land, waterpower and wood fuel. The Boston and Sandwich Glass Company was founded in 1825 and grew steadily over a 63-year period to employ 500 workers who created various types of glassware. The company is best known for its pressed-glass items, which could be produced quickly, inexpensively and in large quantities for sale to middle-class shoppers desiring fine objects for their homes. The Boston and Sandwich Glass Company closed in 1888 after the center of pressed-glass production shifted from New England to the Midwest, where the cost of glassmaking was less expensive. Today, glass made at the Sandwich factory is a highly prized antique collectible. The Sandwich Glass Museum, located across from the Grist Mill in the center of Sandwich village, displays thousands of glass objects made at the factory during the 19th century.

Museums in Sandwich, such as Hoxie House, Heritage Museums and Gardens, and Thornton Burgess, are windows to our past and give us a sense of what life was like in the early days of America.

Villages of Wareham

Onset • Wareham • East Wareham • West Wareham

Wareham was discovered in 1603 by Bartholomew Gosnold, an Englishman who sailed across the North Atlantic Ocean to explore the East Coast of North America. Gosnold named Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard, the Elizabethan Islands, Cuttyhunk and Agawam—better known as Wareham—as well as other local towns.

In 1666, local tribes sold Agawam to the Plymouth Colony for grazing lands. The tribes did not realize the full extent of what they had signed; the sale gave the Pilgrims exclusive rights to Agawam.

Early on, the residents recognized the importance of herring. Even in Colonial times, strict rules were set for how many herring could be caught. Because herring was a necessity of life, catching and preserving the fish became a family affair. Oysters were another greatly sought after food found in the local waters.

Bog ore was discovered while digging in the fields. This ore proved useful for making nails, farm implements and ironware. Many homesteads set up furnaces and forges so that they could process the ore. During the processing, it was discovered that if charcoal was burned instead of wood, the fire would be hotter and the ore would then harden and turn to steel. This steel could be used to make stronger nails. In 1819, the first cut-nail factory in the region was started; many other nail companies soon followed. Only one nail company is still in existence: The Tremont Nail Company holds the distinction of owning one of the oldest operating industrial buildings in America. Realizing it's historical significance, the town has purchased the property in order to ensure its preservation.

Overlooking the calm waters of Buzzards Bay is the picturesque seaside village of Onset. Once a favored destination for Duke Ellington, Tommy Dorsey and Cab Calloway, the village continues its fondness for the Blues with its Annual Onset Blues Festival held each August. Today, Onset is a burgeoning vacation destination again, with the resurgence of newly renovated Victorian mansions and cottages that line the sandy crescent-shaped beach.

Wareham offers an exceptional location within easy distance to the Boston and Providence metropolitan areas. All the tourist amenities of the Cape Cod area are available in Wareham. The town has over 54 miles of coastline enhanced by beaches, estuaries, rivers and communities.

Cape Cod Canal A History

By CHRISTOPHER KAZARIAN

The Cape Cod Canal—it's the first thing visitors see when they come to Cape Cod and the last thing they see when they leave.

Now celebrating its 105th year of existence, this man-made structure epitomizes the region that it separates from the rest of the state. Part of what makes the canal so special is its connection to the people that cross paths with this body of water on a daily, weekly, monthly and annual basis.

Perhaps no one is more familiar with the canal and its past than former Bourne Selectman Donald (Jerry) Ellis who spends his days as the superintendent of the Sagamore Cemetery, one of the most haunted places in all of Cape Cod. To find out why, one has to go back to 1909 when there was not even a canal.

By that time, the planning and preparation to build a cut-through of Cape Cod was well underway and in June of that year the first shovels were planted in the ground by the project's financier August Belmont II to ceremoniously kick-start the massive undertaking.

In order for the project to be successful, there had to be major changes to the Cape's landscape. Chief among those was the relocation of 17 bodies buried in the Bourne Cemetery and 45 bodies buried in the Emory Ellis Cemetery as both plots stood directly in the path where the canal was to be built.

The move was not looked upon kindly by Emory Ellis who stopped the building of the canal in 1909 "because he wanted a choice spot in the Sagamore Cemetery to move his family members to," Donald Ellis said. "So when it came time to move everything, he sat in front of the cemetery with a shotgun and wouldn't let anyone touch anything until he was satisfied his family got the right spot in the Sagamore Cemetery. He was an ornery obstructionist and a typical old Yankee, but he got what he wanted."

Or did he? When it came time to finally move the bodies there was a problem. The coffins were not properly aligned with the gravestones, leading to what Mr. Ellis believes are some troubled spirits that haunt the Sagamore Cemetery.

It has made the cemetery, located roughly 200 yards from the canal, a popular locale for those interested in the paranormal. During his time caring for the grounds and its deceased inhabitants, Mr. Ellis said, he has reported eerie sensations—goose bumps, hair standing on the end of his arms, the smell of pungent cigar smoke and an intense pressure on his chest—that are indicative of a ghostly presence.

A different kind of horror is felt by those who travel across the canal in the summertime. While traffic backups may seem like a modern ordeal, Mr. Ellis said, they are not. “When they were building Camp Edwards in 1939, the bridges were so jammed from Wareham to [the base] they had to create a system of one-way traffic from 5 to 8 am over the bridge and then in evening it was one-way going back,” he said. “The traffic patterns and back-ups are nothing new to anyone. Outsiders get upset with it, but we live with it.”

While ghosts and traffic represent the downsides to the canal, Mr. Ellis still had high praise for the engineering marvel. “It draws a huge amount of tourists which our whole economy on Cape Cod is based on,” he said. “This is probably one of the greatest amenities you can have.”

Fellow Bourne resident Skip Barlow, president of the town’s historical society, agreed. As owner of Barlow’s Clam Shack across from the canal rest area in Bourne-dale, he sees firsthand the tourists who take advantage of “the biggest free recreation area in Southeastern Massachusetts.”

These are people who take to the canal to walk, rollerblade, bike, fish and sunbathe. “The canal is used year round by tourists and locals alike,” he said. “About three million people use it for recreational purposes annually... It’s kind of a neat place and it’s free and easily accessible.”

Not only is the canal a great place to people watch, he said, it is a prime spot for boating enthusiasts. “You can see almost any kind of boat go through there at any time of year,” Barlow said. “It is pretty cool if you like boats. I’m right out there checking it out because I really enjoy those things.”

Among the more prominent boaters to travel through the canal were Phil Donahue and his wife Marlo Thomas in the 1990’s. “I was shocked by the size of their boat,” Bob King, the co-owner of Café Chew in Sandwich, recalled. “He drove it by himself. It was just him and Marlo. I asked him, ‘You can handle this by yourself?’ and he said, ‘Oh yeah.’ It was huge.”

King and his husband and business partner Tobin Wirt were invited onto the yacht which had been tied up for the evening at the Sandwich Boat Basin, adjacent to the canal. Just a few hours earlier Donahue and Thomas had dined at the Bee-hive Tavern, a Sandwich eatery that King and Wirt owned from 1992 to 2004.

“After they had dinner of course they needed to get back to the boat and they asked if we could call them a taxi,” King said. “There was no taxi at the time so we offered to give them a ride. We gave them a nice tour of Sandwich... They enjoyed that. When we got to the boat they invited us on.”

King’s other vivid memory of the canal was from his childhood when his father, an avid fisherman, would “terrify us about falling into the canal and that it would swallow you up. We couldn’t even put our toe into the water. He was afraid of the current.”

Though illegal now, at one point taking a dip in the canal was commonplace, even after the Army Corps of Engineers took

Buzzards Bay Railroad Bridge

A rare, perfect marriage of form and function, the majestic vertical lift railroad bridge has been a landmark of the Cape Cod Canal and the village of Buzzards Bay for nearly 70 years. Constructed between 1933 and 1935 by the Phoenix Bridge Company, the bridge was designed to replace a smaller railroad bridge built in 1912, which could not accommodate the larger vessels that would be using the canal. With a horizontal span of 544 feet, the Buzzards Bay Railroad Bridge was the longest lift span in the world at the time of its construction. The span is normally kept in its raised position of 135 feet above mean high water to allow ship traffic to pass through unimpeded. Controls for the bridge are located in the north tower. Huge pulleys with 16-foot sheave wheels are located in the top of each tower, and each tower has 40 cables to lift a box filled with about 1,100 tons of concrete. Since the center span weighs about 2,200 tons, these boxes create a near-perfect counterbalance; therefore, only four 150-horsepower motors and an auxiliary motor are needed to raise or lower the central span in just two and half minutes. The Buzzards Bay Railroad Bridge is still considered to be the most aesthetic single-span vertical lift bridge in the world. Its distinctive features include open steel construction with Gothic scrolling and decorative tower cones topped with stainless steel globes. Aerial beacons are located on the spires and on the highest point of the central span. A major renovation of the bridge was completed in 2003, restoring it to its original grandeur so that it may provide us with many more years of pleasure and dependable service.

over control of the waterway in 1928. “We used to go swimming in it all the time,” said Wally Alden, who grew up in Sagamore and now lives in Buzzards Bay.

His connection to the canal extends to his father William Alden and his uncle Burton Alden who both worked on the construction of the Sagamore Bridge which opened to traffic in 1935.

As a child, he remembered days when his father would pile his family into his Buick and drive them up to the bank of the canal to watch the boats come by. From a purely practical point of view, he noted that the canal has been beneficial for boats by cutting off the travel time it takes to go around Cape Cod.

But to him, the canal is more than a utilitarian object. It is a place where he used to catch tautog, cod and flounder as a child. Now he passes on these family traditions to his 18 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren who visit from as far away as Florida and Texas. “We take them along the canal and they just love to sit there and watch the railroad bridge go up and down,” he said. “They are really fascinated by it.”

The public’s fascination with the canal extends far beyond Cape Cod. “Whenever we travel and wherever we go, we tell people we live in the town before the canal,” Wareham’s Claire Smith said. “I use it as a reference because people seem to know it wherever you go.”

She too was drawn to the popular landmark at a young age. On an occasional Sunday—when she and her older sister Patricia were supposed to be in church, the pair would drive down to the canal and watch the boats pass through. “We were sworn to secrecy,” Smith laughed. “We never told our mother we actually didn’t go to church.”

What the siblings found was a peaceful serenity that is rarer to find now with the amount of traffic and number of visitors to the canal.

Still there is something captivating about this modern marvel. “You drive along it and you have these incredible views and just think about the history of them who had to dig it. It fascinates me,” Smith said. “We don’t see this type of construction today. Just stop and think what they had to work with and look what they accomplished. The canal is an incredible piece of history dug by hand.” ●

Hampton Inn Cape Cod Canal

Great Views & Amenities

Imagine waking up in your hotel room and drawing the curtains back to enjoy a view of the Cape Cod Canal. Perhaps you'll see the Viking Cruise ship floating by or a few sail boats trolling through, all from the comfort of your room as you enjoy a hot cup of coffee. This is just one of the unique experiences the new Hampton Inn Cape Cod Canal plans to offer its guests. The 100-room property is scheduled to open this summer, it is located less than 60 yards from the Cape Cod Canal walking path. Guests will not only have beautiful exclusive views, but direct access to the walking path as well. The hotel is 5 stories high with approximately half its rooms facing the canal.

Staying true to the brand's mission the hotel will have high quality accommodations and amenities including Connected Guest capecodcanalchamber.org

Rooms. Guests will have access to the newest technology allowing them to control the television, lighting and temperature of their room all via their smart phone. Guests will also enjoy Hampton's refreshed hot breakfast which will include smoothies and fresh juices in addition to all their breakfast favorites. Guests will continue to enjoy complimentary WiFi and the 100% Hampton Guarantee.

In addition to its 100 guest rooms the hotel will have over 1,600 square feet of indoor meeting space and over 2,100 square feet of outdoor function space. The outdoor space will include a 2nd floor roof top deck and 1st floor veranda with direct access to indoor meeting space. Both the deck and veranda will be hosts to amazing views of the Canal. The hotel will also offer a grab-and-go market concept, a state-of-the-art fitness facility and a stunning indoor heated pool. The hotel will be conveniently located near access to major highways as well as the Bourne Bridge and Sagamore Bridge.

Perfectly placed is how some will describe the hotel's location. Situated in Buzzards Bay, the Gateway to Cape Cod, guests are a few miles from beaches, museums and first-class dining. Visitors can venture to historic Provincetown, while admiring the National Sea Shore and its historical light houses on the way all in one day. Less than 20 miles away guests can find themselves in America's First Hometown, Plymouth. Here they can spend the day in the harbor shopping and sampling local fare or spend some time at Plimouth Plantation and learn about 17th century life and the Pilgrims first encounters with the Native Americans. If guests are wanting to get a more up-close view of the canal, they can take a cruise or a scenic train ride over the canal all available within a short distance of the hotel. Of course families with children will appreciate our handy location in reference to the world first and only Thomas Land. The Hampton Inn Cape Cod Canal truly does have something for everyone!

When planning your next adventure, the Hampton Inn Cape Cod Canal is ready to be your home away from home. Let their staff welcome you into a warm, comforting environment where all the conveniences you want and need are waiting for you. 🟡

Heritage Museums & Gardens: A 50-Year Celebration

On June 15, 1969, Heritage Museums & Gardens officially opened to the public, quickly becoming known for its wide assortment of art and autos, history and gardens, popular entertainment and exhibits, and good family-friendly fun.

True to its reputation and legacy as Cape Cod's premier cultural and horticultural destination, Heritage will commemorate its 50th anniversary this June 15th with a fun-filled celebration complete with party-themed crafts and activities, and a can't-be-beat throwback admission price. It all culminates with an evening concert featuring one of Heritage's favorite musical acts, The New Black Eagle Jazz Band. Be sure to mark your calendars and come out and enjoy!

Heritage opens its 50th season with a special exhibit, 50 for 50: Fifty Years, Fifty Favorites. Scattered throughout the buildings and grounds are 50 treasures – plants, autos, folk art, militaria, scrimshaw, carvings, and more – that tell the collective story of the museum's first 50 years. A mix of old friends, experts, and local leaders were invited to come select their favorites. Stroll through Heritage's history and revel in a little taste of American ingenuity, culture, and the great outdoors. This exhibit will run from April 27- October 14.

In From Carriage to Classic: How Automobiles Transformed America, we present the origin story of the American automobile capecodcanalchamber.org through 23 cars from Heritage's permanent collection. How did the car emerge as a transformative cultural force of the twentieth century? What were early automobiles like? Why did gasoline become the fuel of choice? What ever happened to steam engines? How did the car change the daily lives of ordinary families? How much was a luxury car in the 1930s? Learn the answers to these questions and more. Come along for a ride from the late 1800s to the early 1960s and watch the car evolve from a horseless carriage to a streamlined symbol of freedom and independence. This exhibit will run from April 27- October 14.

Heritage Museums & Gardens will also explore how humans interact with our natural environment in the new outdoor exhibit Human / Nature. The museum has invited five artists to install outdoor sculptures throughout the museum grounds and gardens. Over the course of the 2019 season, museum visitors will be able to view monumental public art and meet these artists as they install their pieces on Artist in Action days (May 3, May 23, July 26 & August 9). Visitors can further participate in hands-on workshops, called Art Adventures, where they can create masterpieces alongside the featured artists (May 4, July 27 & August 10). The artists represent a wide range of media, including metal, wood, fiber, sound, murals/painting, and more.

"Our 50th year gives not only us, but everyone, the opportunity to visit and explore our impressive collections and unique natural environment in a new way,” says Anne Scott-Putney, President and CEO at Heritage. “From the moment visitors arrive, there are multiple fun ways they can experience Heritage, including our behind-the-scenes tours that cater to their interests and get them up close and personal with our collections, gardens, and exhibits.”

As the largest public garden in Southern New England and home to the most comprehensive collection of rhododendrons and hydrangeas in the country, Heritage’s gardens are truly a feast for the eyes! The beauty of these magnificent flowers is in full bloom during Rhododendron Festival (May 25- June 2) and Hydrangea Festival (July 12-21), which features the new North American Hydrangea Test Garden. Special horticulture events include Hydrangea University (July 12), led by industry experts, and the Standard Flower Show (July 16-18), a major flower show presented by The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts Southeastern District’s garden Clubs and award-winning Design & Horticulture Study Group.

Heritage also serves as home to notable gems of the automotive world that celebrate America’s love of automobiles as well as technological innovation. These vehicles convey both excellence in restoration and historic significance. The 47th Heritage Annual Auto Show (June 8; rain date June 9) is a popular, family-friendly event that highlights antique and classic automobiles, hot rods, custom cars, and motorcycles in excellent original or restored condition. Throughout the season, behind-the-scenes auto tours provide an exclusive peek at Heritage’s automobile collection in storage and inside information.

Heritage’s focus on family-friendly fun includes Kids’ Day (July 27), featuring music, entertainment, activities, and picnicking on the grounds. Families also can spend hours in the popular two-acre Hidden Hollow™ outdoor family discovery space which includes a Splash area with a discovery stream and a waterfall feature!

Returning this season, are the popular food truck events at Heritage at which visitors can experience the mobile food movement and enjoy Heritage after hours. Three seasonally- themed events will take place from spring to fall and celebrate different areas of Heritage’s beautiful grounds. The Spring Fling (April 27), Summer Sizzle (August 10), and Fall Fest Friday (September 20) will all give participants access to exhibits, live music, games, and the chance to savor food from some of the area’s best-known food trucks. New this year will be the addition of local breweries offering tastings and beverages for sale.

Heritage is the place to be for Halloween fun once again! The Sandwich Halloween Festival (October 25-26), presented in partnership with the Sandwich High School and STEM Parent Teacher Student Association, will provide visitors of all ages with two nights of spooktacular fun, including costumed dance parties, carousel rides, crafts, and games.

To close out the season, Gardens Aglow (Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays; November 29- December 29), a treasured holiday family tradition, transforms the grounds with thousands upon thousands of holiday lights. Enjoy marshmallow roasting, a reindeer scavenger hunt, and a visit with Santa Claus in a Model T, take carousel rides, savor holiday treats at Magnolia Café, and more. A limited number of tickets will also be available for an exclusive Santa VIP Experience, available by advance sale only. Families will be treated to early bird parking, story time, cookies and hot chocolate, a meet and greet with Santa, a holiday craft, and carousel rides. Participating families may then experience the rest of the Gardens Aglow holiday delights around the grounds for the remainder of the evening.

“Heritage not only offers up-close and personal experiences that can’t be found anywhere else, but also strengthens our bonds with family and friends,” says Scott-Putney. “It’s a place of joy and fun. It’s a place to make lasting memories. And it’s a place designed to be visited time and time again.”

The 2019 regular season runs from April 27-October 14. Open daily, 10 am-5 pm. More information is available online at heritagemuseumsandgardens.org or by calling 508-888-3300. ●

All Aboard!

Cape Cod Central Railroad

We invite you to get up close with the hidden beauty of the Cape aboard the Cape Cod Central Railroad! The Cape Train runs regularly from May through October. Additionally, we offer holiday themed trains in November and December. The Cape Cod Central Railroad offers narrated Canal Excursion Trains departing from Buzzards Bay, and Coastal Excursion Trains departing from Hyannis. We also offer delicious Cape Cod Dinner Trains, Luncheon, and Sunday Brunch Trains featuring fresh meals created onboard by our talented chef. Join us for our Special Event Trains including Easter Brunch, Mother's Day, Father's Day, the Rails & Ales Beer Tasting Train, Gourmet Wine & Dinner Trains, or a Murder Mystery Dining Train. Departing regularly from Hyannis, with select additional departures from Buzzards Bay and North Falmouth, the Cape Cod Central Railroad is a popular tourist attraction. Travel through the villages of West Barnstable, Sandwich, and along the Cape Cod Canal as you pass sand dunes and salt marshes, see glimpses of Cape Cod Bay, and have the opportunity to enjoy areas of Cape Cod that are only accessible by rail.

Our two or three-hour excursion trains offer onboard narration highlighting the history of the area including the glass industry and the building of the famous Cape Cod Canal, as well as information about the coastal ecology of the Cape, and much more. Box lunches are available with advance purchase. Our three-hour Cape Cod Dinner Train is a true culinary journey. This train travels through quaint villages and is accompanied by romantic music and soft candlelight. As guests soak in the splendor of the seaside community, a fresh delicious meal is prepared. On most evenings, in addition to viewing beautiful coastal scenery, dinner train passengers will be treated to a trip across the famous Cape Cod Canal Railroad Bridge. To view our schedule, please visit CapeTrain.com for a complete listing of our offerings or call 888-797-7245 to make reservations. We look forward to welcoming you aboard!
