Bourne is the first town visitors encounter when entering Barnstable County. It has the distinction of occupying most of the land through which the Cape Cod Canal flows. Whether traveling to the Cape on Route 3 or Route 495 to 25, visitors must pass through at least one of Bourne's many villages.

English colonists lived in this area as early as 1627. The first free enterprise in America was located near the west end of the land cut of the present Cape Cod

Canal. The Aptucxet Trading Post was situated on a piece of land between a creek and two rivers; the Manomet River connected with Massachusetts Bay, and the Monument River connected to a body of water that eventually reached the entrance of New York Harbor and the Hudson River. It was at this trading post that the Pilgrims traded goods with the Dutch colonies from the New York area. And it was here that the first currency in America was developed: it was called wampum and was made from purple parts of quahog shells. A replica of the Aptucxet Trading Post is situated off Shore Road in Bourne Village.

In the 1880s, Bourne became an ideal location for manufacturing. Power was provided by windmills and water wheels, and raw manufacturing materials were available in the region. Finished products could be shipped out on trains or ships. One noteworthy company was the Keith Car Works of Sagamore, which built freight cars. It began work in 1826 and remained in operation for over 100 years. Many houses built by the company can still be seen on both sides of the east end of the Canal.

As the large industrial centers in Massachusetts prospered, the state's wealthy residents wanted to escape the cities and enjoy the country. They scouted the Cape Cod Canal Region and decided it was perfect for their needs. The cool ocean breezes, sandy beaches and wooded lands made it an ideal summer retreat for the whole family. Over the next few years, many elaborate and expensive summer homes were built in the area. President Grover Cleveland, Shakespearean actor Joseph Jefferson and Boston Globe founder Charles H. Taylor were a few of the region's famous summer residents.

The features that attracted people here over 100 years ago are still present today, including moderate year-round temperatures, sandy beaches with water temperatures conducive to water sports, abundant fishing and shell fishing locations, and wooded areas in which to observe and enjoy nature. It is an excellent region to use power and sailing vessels both large and small. No matter what your interests are, Bourne is the place to be for a day, a week, or a lifetime.

Villages of Sandwich

East Sandwich • Forestdale • Sandwich • South Sandwich

Incorporated in 1639, Sandwich is the oldest of the Cape towns. During the town's first 100 years, the English settlers farmed the land and ran small coastal fishing enterprises.

Sandwich was also an important stagecoach stop on the Old King's Highway (now Route 6A) from Boston to Provincetown; it quickly became a center for travel and tourism. Taverns and inns cropped up along the main street. Wealthy Boston travelers on business and vacation stayed at these establishments en route to other parts of Cape Cod. The Fessenden Tavern (later called the Central House) was one of the most famous stops; it was noted for being the Patriot Headquarters before the Revolutionary War and was later renamed for its most popular guest, Daniel Webster. Across town, Newcomb's Tavern, served as the Tory headquarters.

In the early 1800s, factories were started in the region, taking advantage of the national resources of land, waterpower and wood fuel. The Boston and Sandwich Glass Company was founded in 1825 and grew steadily over a 63-year period to employ 500 workers who created various types of glassware. The company is best known for its pressed-glass items, which could be produced quickly, inexpensively and in large quantities for sale to middle-class shoppers desiring fine objects for their homes. The Boston and Sandwich Glass Company closed in 1888 after the center of pressed-glass production shifted from New England to the Midwest, where the cost of glassmaking was less expensive. Today, glass made at the Sandwich factory is a highly prized antique collectible. The Sandwich Glass Museum, located across from the Grist Mill in the center of Sandwich village, displays thousands of glass objects made at the factory during the 19th century.

Museums in Sandwich, such as Hoxie House, Heritage Museums and Gardens, and Thornton Burgess, are windows to our past and give us a sense of what life was like in the early days of America.

Villages of Wareham

Onset • Wareham • East Wareham • West Wareham

Wareham was discovered in 1603 by Bartholomew Gosnold, an Englishman who sailed across the North Atlantic Ocean to explore the East Coast of North America. Gosnold named Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard, the Elizabethan Islands, Cuttyhunk and Agawam—better known as Wareham—as well as other local towns.

In 1666, local tribes sold Agawam to the Plymouth Colony for grazing lands. The tribes did not realize the full extent of what they had signed; the sale gave the Pilgrims exclusive rights to Agawam.

Early on, the residents recognized the importance of herring. Even in Colonial times, strict rules were set for how many herring could be caught. Because herring was a necessity of life, catching and preserving the fish became a family affair. Oysters were another greatly sought after food found in the local waters.

Bog ore was discovered while digging in the fields. This ore proved useful for making nails, farm implements and ironware. Many homesteads set up furnaces and forges so that they could process the ore. During the processing, it was discovered that if charcoal was burned instead of wood, the fire would be hotter and the ore would then harden and turn to steel. This steel could be used to make stronger nails. In 1819, the first cut-nail factory in the region was started; many other nail companies soon followed. Only one nail company is still in existence: The Tremont Nail Company holds the distinction of owning one of the oldest operating industrial buildings in America. It currently houses ECHO Elizabeth & Company Home Offerings selling locally-sourced and hand-made artisanal and gifts, up-scaled home furnishings, select antiques and vintage items. Realizing it's historical significance, the town has purchased the property in order to ensure its preservation.

Overlooking the calm waters of Buzzards Bay is the picturesque seaside village of Onset. Once a favored destination for Duke Ellington, Tommy Dorsey and Cab Calloway, the village continues its fondness for the Blues with its Annual Onset Blues Festival held each August. Today, Onset is a burgeoning vacation destination again, with the resurgence of newly renovated Victorian mansions and cottages that line the sandy crescent-shaped beach.

Wareham offers an exceptional location within easy distance to the Boston and Providence metropolitan areas. All the tourist amenities of the Cape Cod area are available in Wareham. The town has over 54 miles of coastline enhanced by beaches, estuaries, rivers and communities.

The Cape Cod Canal—it's the first thing visitors see when they come to Cape Cod and the last thing they see when they leave.

Now celebrating its 106th year of existence, this man-made structure epitomizes the region that it separates from the rest of the state. Part of what makes the canal so special is its connection to the people that cross paths with this body of water on a daily, weekly, monthly and annual basis.

Perhaps no one is more familiar with the canal and its past than former Bourne Selectman Donald (Jerry) Ellis who spends his days as the superintendent of the Sagamore Cemetery, one of the most haunted places in all of Cape Cod. To find out why, one has to go back to 1909 when there was not even a canal.

By that time, the planning and preparation to build a cut-through of Cape Cod was well underway and in June of that year the first shovels were planted in the ground by the project's financier August Belmont II to ceremoniously kick-start the massive undertaking.

In order for the project to be successful, there had to be major changes to the Cape's landscape. Chief among those was the relocation of 17 bodies buried in the Bourne Cemetery and 45 bodies buried in the Emory Ellis Cemetery as both plots stood directly in the path where the canal was to be built.

The move was not looked upon kindly by

Emory Ellis who stopped the building of the canal in 1909 "because he wanted a choice spot in the Sagamore Cemetery to move his family members to," Donald Ellis said. "So when it came time to move everything, he sat in front of the cemetery with a shotgun and wouldn't let anyone touch anything until he was satisfied his family got the right spot in the Sagamore Cemetery. He was an ornery obstructionist and a typical old Yankee, but he got what he wanted."

Or did he? When it came time to finally move the bodies there was a problem. The coffins were not properly aligned with the gravestones, leading to what Mr. Ellis believes are some troubled spirits that haunt the Sagamore Cemetery.

It has made the cemetery, located roughly 200 yards from the canal, a popular locale for those interested in the paranormal. During his time caring for the grounds and its deceased inhabitants, Mr. Ellis said, he has reported eerie sensations—goose bumps, hair standing on the end of his arms, the smell of pungent cigar smoke and an intense pressure on his chest—that are indicative of a ghostly presence.

Fellow Bourne resident Skip Barlow, president of the town's historical society, agreed. As owner of Barlow's Clam Shack across from the

10 Fun Facts About the Railroad Bridge

The Art Deco railroad bridge that straddles the Cape Cod Canal looked great with its giant cruise ship accessory. The lift bridge at the west end of the canal is a big draw especially when it lowers for a train and then raises for boat traffic. Here are some fun facts about the iconic bridge along with videos and photos:

1. The vertical clearance above mean high water: 135 feet
2. Total height above mean sea level: 271 feet
3. Number of Tracks: 1
4. The bridge is kept in the raised position until a train needs to cross
5. Time to Lower: 2.5 minutes
6. Length of Center Span: 544 feet
7. Center Span Weight: 2,200 tons
8. Original Cost: $1.56 million
9. When constructed, it was the longest vertical lift railroad bridge in the world
10. The bridge underwent a massive rehabilitation from 2001-2003. Work included new paint, new counterweight cables, new operating and electrical system and rehabilitated sheaves.

canal rest area in Bourne, he sees firsthand the tourists who take advantage of “the biggest free recreation area in Southeastern Massachusetts.”

These are people who take to the canal to walk, rollerblade, bike, fish and sunbathe. “The canal is used year round by tourists and locals alike,” he said. “About three million people use it for recreational purposes annually... It’s kind of a neat place and it’s free and easily accessible.”

Not only is the canal a great place to people watch, he said, it is a prime spot for boating enthusiasts. “You can see almost any kind of boat go through there at any time of year,” Barlow said. “It is pretty cool if you like boats. I’m right out there checking it out because I really enjoy those things.”

Among the more prominent boaters to travel through the canal were Phil Donahue and his wife Marlo Thomas in the 1990’s. “I was shocked by the size of their boat,” Bob King, the co-owner of Café Chew in Sandwich, recalled. “He drove it by himself. It was just him and Marlo. I asked him, ‘You can handle this by yourself?’ and he said, ‘Oh yeah.’ It was huge.”

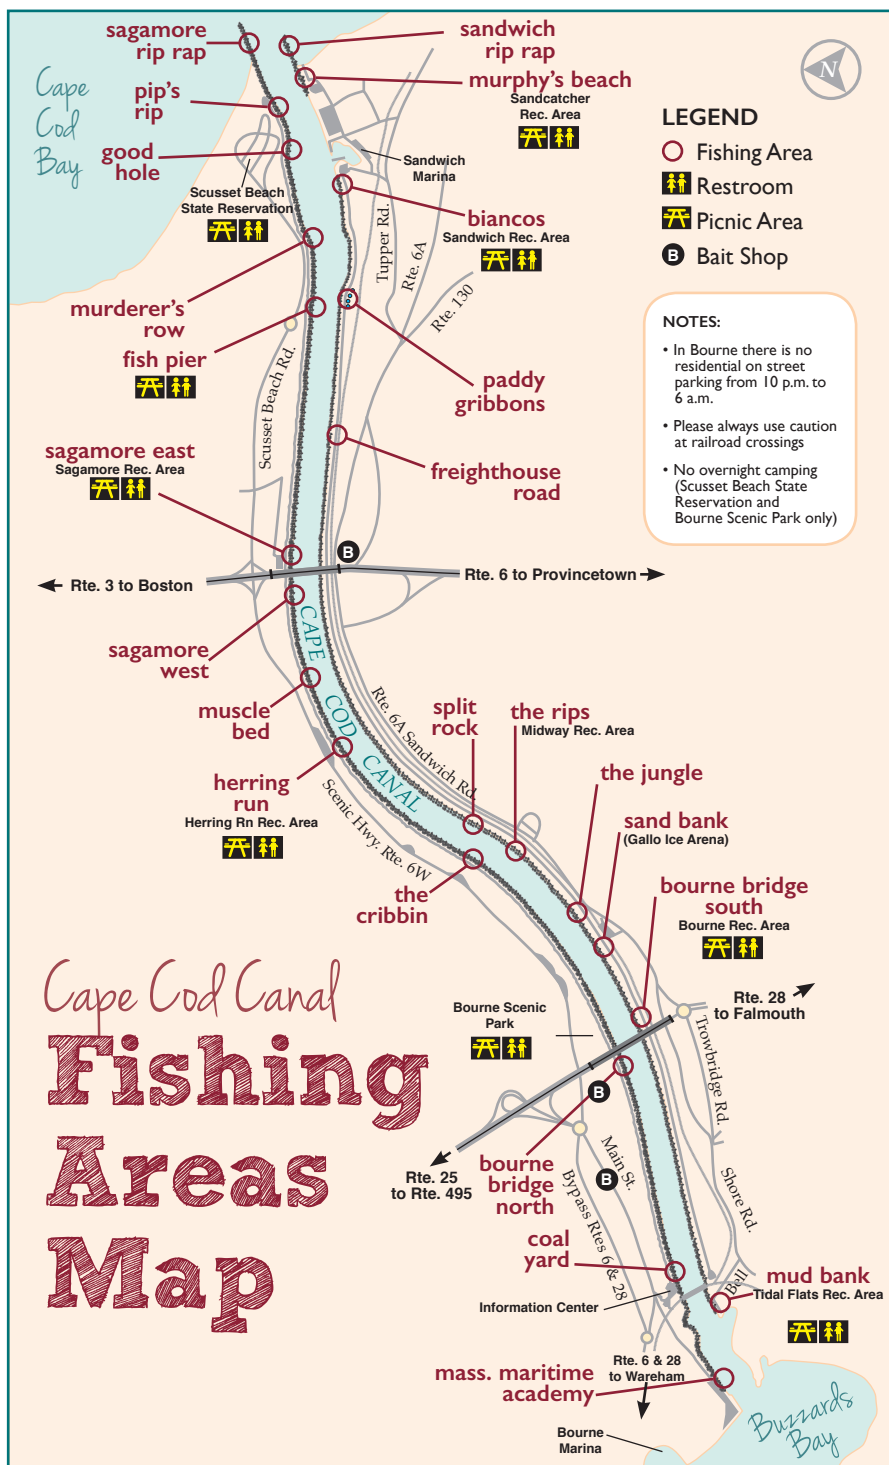

King and his husband and business partner

Tobin Wirt were invited onto the yacht which had been tied up for the evening at the Sandwich Boat Basin, adjacent to the canal. Just a few hours earlier Donahue and Thomas had dined at the Bee-hive Tavern, a Sandwich eatery that King and Wirt owned from 1992 to 2004.

“After they had dinner of course they needed to get back to the boat and they asked if we could call them a taxi,” King said. “There was no taxi at the time so we offered to give them a ride. We gave them a nice tour of Sandwich... They enjoyed that. When we got to the boat they invited us on.”

King’s other vivid memory of the canal was from his childhood when his father, an avid fisherman, would “terrify us about falling into the canal and that it would swallow you up. We couldn’t even put our toe into the water. He was afraid of the current.”

Though illegal now, at one point taking a dip in the canal was commonplace, even after the Army Corps of Engineers took over control of the waterway in 1928. “We used to go swimming in it all the time,” said Wally Alden, who grew up in Sagamore and now lives in Buzzards Bay.” 🟡

The A.D. Makepeace Company World's Largest Cranberry Grower

Our saltwater views and sandy beaches are the best known draw for visitors to the Canal Region.

But equally beautiful and unique are our thousands of acres of cranberry bogs.

Every fall, visitors and locals alike enjoy the iconic picture-postcard scene: the bogs are flooded, and the crimson berries float to the surface where they are corralled and loaded into trucks. But the bogs are picturesque year-round. In early summer, they are blanketed with tiny white flowers. In the winter and spring, the diminutive leaves of the dormant vines turn the familiar cranberry color.

The world's largest cranberry grower, located right here in Wareham, offers ample opportunities to view these scenic spots – for an afternoon, or a lifetime.

The World's Largest Cranberry Grower

The A.D. Makepeace Company, a proud member of the Cape Cod Canal Region Chamber of Commerce, is the world's largest cranberry grower and the largest private property owner in eastern Massachusetts.

How did it get there? Well, this Wareham-based company has a 166-year history of seizing entrepreneurial opportunities.

Founder and namesake Abel Makepeace grew his agricultural business into what seven generations later we call “vertical integration.” Needing containers in which to pack cranberries for shipping, he built a box mill. Needing a place to dispose of the box mill's sawdust, he reached out to New Bedford's commercial fishermen, and sold them the sawdust for packing fish on ice.

Today, the box mill is no longer used for its original purpose, so the company converted it to a uniquely rustic function hall. Dozens of lucky newlyweds have their photos taken on Tihonet Pond, the scenic lake whose output once powered the box mill.

Since the company helped create the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association in 1888, it has become a leader in the agritourism industry, helping to build awareness and understanding of the cranberry industry by hosting educational tours throughout the spring and summer, and especially the fall harvest season.

The A.D. Makepeace Company also participated in the founding of the Ocean Spray growers' co-op, in 1930, and is currently its largest farmer-owner.

Live on A Bog

More recently, the company has branched out into other complimentary activities, while maintaining its leadership role in agriculture.

The A.D. Makepeace Company is widely known as an award-winning developer of environmentally responsible real estate projects. One example in Wareham is Rosebrook, where offices, retail, restaurants, homes, a TownePlace Suites by Marriott, and medical facilities are arrayed around 29 acres of picturesque cranberry bogs.

Here, you can rent a luxury apartment perched over the bog at 35 Rosebrook. Take in a sunrise view from your oversized windows before heading out to the bogs for a run or leisurely stroll. In the evening, choose from one of three regionally renowned restaurants, or sip a coffee on the Brookview Lounge deck, from which you can often spot deer, fox, or even a bald eagle soaring overhead.

In Plymouth, the A.D. Makepeace Company is building Redbrook, a mixed-use village where 1,200 families enjoy old-fashioned walkable neighborhoods amid thousands of acres of permanently protected open space.

A modern version of the company's vertical integration has been the expansion of the custom soils division. The A.D. Makepeace Company significantly grew in this arena by acquiring Read Custom Soils (RSC), another family-owned business, in 2011 after years of collaboration. RCS designs and manufactures engineered soils: specially designed recipes of sand, loam, clay, and other materials necessary for low-impact development. There are lightweight materials best suited to roof gardens, water-retaining soils used in landscaping, naturalized solutions for stormwater runoff, sands for golf courses and athletic fields, stone dust that compacts to a durable but permeable ADA-compliant surface, and much more.

Something Abel Makepeace never envisioned, when he founded the company in 1854, was that it would one day have a website. It's ADMakepeace.com, and it provides information about real estate, Read Custom Soils, corporate management, and cranberries.

Newly on display for 2020 are thirteen automobiles – including the recently reactivated 1931 Ford Model A Deluxe Phaeton. e This exhibit answers questions like, “How did the car emerge as a transformative cultural force of the twentieth century? What were early automobiles like? Why did gasoline become the fuel of choice? What ever happened to steam engines?

How did the car change the daily lives of ordinary families?” Come along for a ride from the late 1800s to the early 1960s and watch the car evolve from a horseless carriage to a streamlined symbol of freedom and independence. This exhibit will run from April 25- October 12.

Visitors will appreciate a refreshed look at our permanent collection in The Heritage Collection, which demonstrates the excellence and ingenuity of American craftsmen. On display are selections from the museum's 16,500-piece collection of American art and artifacts. Highlights on display for 2020 include jewelry by internationally known artist Hazel Blake French, who made jewelry from glass salvaged from the Sandwich Glass Factory, as well as never-before-exhibited letters, photos, training manuals, and awards from the collection of WWII veteran and Sandwich resident, Frederick Kirk.

In the gardens, Heritage Museums & Gardens also will explore native pollinators with the outdoor art exhibit Bugs, Birds & Bricks (May 15 - October 12). Award-winning professional brick artist Cody Wells will create custom Lego sculptures of insects and birds found on Cape Cod. Placed within the grounds and gardens, these sculptures highlight the interconnected relationships between the plants and animals that we see at Heritage.

“We invite visitors to build their perfect day at Heritage, the largest cultural attraction on Cape Cod! Whether your interest is the toys and games you remember from childhood, or exploring our 100 acres of manicured gardens and woodland trails, we offer the best days of summer to visitors of all ages,” says Anne Scott-Putney, President and CEO at Heritage.

Heritage will also be taking a closer look at the 400th anniversary of the Mayflower voyage and the Plymouth Colony. This is a story that cannot be told without the perspective of the indigenous people who were here as that ship arrived and who still remain. “Our Story”: 400 Years of Wampanoag History reveals little-known historic and cultural realities of the Wampanoag, the tribe first encountered by Mayflower Pilgrims when they landed in Provincetown Harbor and explored the eastern coast of Cape Cod.

As the largest public garden in Southern New England, and home of the most comprehensive collection of rhododendrons and hydrangeas in the country, Heritage’s gardens are truly a feast for the eyes! The beauty of these magnificent flowers is in full bloom during Rhododendron Festival (May 23 –May 31) and Hydrangea Festival (July 10-19). During the Rhododendron Festival, take in Heritage’s world-famous rhododendrons in a whole new way during the second annual Run for the Rhodes 5K Trail Race! Walk, jog, or run along scenic pathways and flower-studded woodland trails to discover some of Heritage’s most beautiful acres. The Hydrangea Festival will feature a new addition to the North American Hydrangea Test Garden and the kick-off event of the Cape Cod Hydrangea Festival, Hydrangea University (July 10). Horticulture-lovers won’t want to miss the National Garden Club Flower Show: “Cape Cod Legends” (July 28-30), a major flower show presented by The Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts Southeastern District’s garden clubs and award-winning Design & Horticulture Study Group.

Heritage is home to gems of the automotive world that celebrate America’s love of automobiles as well as technological innovation, featuring vehicles that convey excellence in restoration and historic significance. The Heritage Annual Auto Show (June 13; rain date: June 14) is a popular, family-friendly event that highlights antique and classic automobiles, hot rods, custom cars, and motorcycles in excellent original or restored condition. Throughout the season, Behind-the-Scenes Auto Storage Tours provide an exclusive peek at Heritage’s automobile collection in storage and inside information.

Heritage’s focus on family-friendly fun includes Game Night! (June 26 and September 25) where visitors can grab a bite from some of the area’s best-known food trucks before challenging family and friends to all types of indoor and outdoor games. We kick up the fun to a new level for our Lego enthusiasts with Brick-stravaganza Family Fun Day (July 25 and August 15). Award-winning, professional brick artist, Cody Wells, will demonstrate advanced building techniques and lead group challenges and a community build project with thousands of bricks during these daylong events.

Fall activities include Cocktails for Cars (September 12) which is a fundraising event that brings together the finest collector cars in the region for one spectacular evening (tickets are required) and our annual Sandwich Halloween Festival (October 23-24) where we partner with the STEM Academy/ Sandwich High School Parent Teacher Student Association for a (not too) spooktacular family festival.

To close out the season, Gardens Aglow, a treasured holiday family tradition, transforms the grounds with more than 250,000 holiday lights. Enjoy marshmallow-roasting, a reindeer scavenger hunt, visits with Santa Claus in the Model T, carousel rides, holiday treats at Magnolia Café, and more.

Heritage is grateful for the support of the 2020 Lead Sponsor, the Arbella Insurance Foundation. The 2020 season runs from April 25-October 12. Open daily, 10 am-5 pm. More information is available online at heritagemuseumsandgardens.org or by calling 508-888-3300.
